History

The Blue Ridge Cafe is located in the former Floyd County Bank Building and dates back to the end of the 19th century. Originally built around 1897 and then extended in the early 1900's, this was the home of the first bank in Floyd County.

The building became a restaurant in the late 1920's but retained the bank vault which is still in the cafe. There have been many different owners over the years, but the love of southern comfort food has stayed the same.
